The desk was formerly occupied by Chief Justice Ryan.

COMMON FOLKS TO HAVE VOICE

Senator Titus Has Bill to Give Recognition to Farmers and Laborers

Parsons and laboring men will be placed upon educational boards if not legislative enactments a bill offered by Sen. Titus, Fond du Lac, offered an upper house on Tuesday. The bill provides for two farmers and two laboring men on each of the educational boards.

The senate killed the Czerwinski resolution providing for appointment of a joint committee to investigate congested office conditions in state capitol. The resolution was unfavorably recommended by committee on state affairs.

There isn't anything that can be done about this matter," said Sen. Titus. "The contract has been made and this resolution is but a move to have a part of the office building taken to Milwaukee. I do not believe the state capitol should be divided."

This is one of the most foolish things I have ever learned about," said Sen. Czerwinski. "A contract has been made to rent the Overland building in Madison for six years and rental paid in this six years would more than pay the cost of the building."

The resolution was indefinitely postponed without a roll call. The senate killed the Czerwinski bill requiring motor vehicles to stop between 50 and ten feet from a railroad crossing. It killed the Czerwinski bill providing for establishment of basic eight hour day in wage workers and his bill to make Armistice Day, Nov. 11, a legal holiday.

Sen. Titus introduced a bill providing for the appointment by the state engineer of a landscape architect at a salary of $4,000 a year. Sen. Huber offered a bill providing that Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute shall be a separate institution under the supervision of state board of mental health.

At the close of the senate session, Lieut. Gov. Connelley addressed the senate but two weeks remain for the introduction of bills, and that he hoped that every opportunity should be taken by the senators to rush the session work.

On the question of laying on the table the Czerwinski bill to increase exemptions under the income tax law the senate divided ten to ten. Lieut. Gov. Connelley voted to lay the bill on the table.

Twins Are Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Boyd

Twins, a son and a daughter, were born Monday evening to Mr. and Mrs. John L. Boyd, Blount st., at the St. Joseph hospital. The Madison General hospital reports a baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. R. R. BODY IN DECISION ON APPLICATION

Hearing is Set for Feb. 23 to Decide on Permanent Increase in Rates

VALUATION BEING MADE

No Detailed Decision is Rendered; Will Await Further Hearing

The Railroad Commission on Tuesday denied the application of the Madison Street Railways Company for a temporary raise in rates for emergency relief. The Commission announced, however, that a hearing for a permanent raise in rates will be held Feb. 23rd.

The Commission said: "The decision now relates only to so much of the company's application as refers to the existence of the emergency and the need of emergency relief. The commission now has under way a valuation of the company's property and another hearing is to be held with reference to the various elements which may be considered with the permanent adjustment of rates. We do not see that any particular would be served by discussing in detail at this time any of the matters involved which are still open for hearing and which must be passed upon when the matter of permanent rates is presented."

There had an audit made of the company's records covering the year 1920 and some prior records and from a consideration of all the facts before us we conclude that there is no condition existing which would call for the issuance of an emergency order modifying the existing rates of fare. In so far as the application now before us asks for emergency relief, it is hereby denied."

Among his most notable opinions was the one written in the soldier educational bonus case in which he held the educational law valid. The death of Justice Kerwin places Justice Vinje on the court as next to Chief Justice Siscoe.

So far no opposition has come into the field to State Superintendent C. P. Cary. His papers are expected to be placed in circulation the latter part of the week.

Sam Was Poor But Just See What He Did

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON—Meet Sam Nicholson, republican senator-elect from Colorado. He is a Guggenheim smelting millionaire.

Sam used to be poor. Thirty years ago he was a leading populist in his state, and he presided at the state convention which nominated "Bloody" Bridles. Wait for the office of governor, to which he was triumphantly elected. On that occasion Sam wielded a piece of scuffling in lieu of a regular gavel. He was loyal to his class.

When he changed classes, as his political opponents pointed out in last summer's campaign, Nicholson changed loyalties. He is loyal to his new class. They agreed that he deserved to sit where one of the Guggenheims sat some years ago, in the upper branch of congress.

It is related of Nicholson that in the course of a speech he claimed the support of the suffragists in this wise: "Friends, I was one of the first persons in Colorado to get behind this Mark Anthony amendment."

PHILIPP SAYS JOHNSON WAS IN ON FUND

Former Governor Claims State Treasurer Needed Emergency Board Help

STATEMENT IS ISSUED

Philipp Defends Law Which Provided for Funds for the Departments

E. L. Philipp, former governor last night issued a statement in Milwaukee in which he takes issue with Henry Johnson state treasurer on the interview given out by Mr. Johnson concerning the action of the state emergency board in the matter of appropriations.

Mr. Philipp defends the measure by which the board consisting of the governor, the secretary of state and the state treasurer was given power to provide various departments with funds not specifically appropriated by the legislature.

Mr. Philipp said: "During the normal times, the necessity for an emergency appropriation can be reduced to a minimum. The demands made thereon should be very few and in the majority of cases can be avoided. However, during the war period, with prices of food and fuel changing from day to day, and the wages of the laborer and office help rising by leaps and bounds, it was necessary to have somebody with power to meet conditions or else make no attempt to carry on the activities of the state. The absurdity of this is readily seen, when our charitable and penal institutions are considered. Would it have been a safe public policy to have opened the doors of our prison, reformatories, and insane institutions and turned the inmates thereof loose upon the people of the state, simply because the legislative appropriation for housing, feeding and clothing made to them had been exhausted?"

The former governor then takes the following dig at Mr. Johnson: "State Treasurer Henry Johnson was one of the three members of the Emergency Board during the past year. He has been in the position of the department and institutions. In no case is Mr. Johnson's signature lacking where emergency allowances were granted."

"In May and June, 1920, Mr. Johnson himself found it necessary to appear before the Emergency Board and ask for additional funds for his department. Under date of May 29, 1920, Mr. Johnson received $5,500 from the Emergency Board for his department. Again under date of June 23, 1920, he received $1,500. Where would Mr. Johnson have been if it had not been for the Emergency Board? His case or necessity was no different or greater than that of other departments and institutions."

WHEY QUESTION AGAIN IS UP

Assemblyman Olson in Bill to Repeal the Present Measure

The battle over the "whey butter" law of the state will be revived in this legislature as a result of introducing of a bill by Assemblyman William Olson of Monroe asking for its repeal, at this afternoon's meeting of the lower house.

Under the present law butter made from whey must be conspicuously labelled.

Assemblyman W. E. Jordan of Milwaukee brought in a resolution memorializing congress to pass the Capper bill regulating trading on the Chicago wheat exchange.

The assembly was in session. 15 minutes.

Mrs. Lawrence in Statement to Papers, Board

Mrs. Rachel D. Lawrence, wife of Richard Henry Lawrence, has issued a statement in the form of a letter to the Madison Democrat concerning the Lawrence "mystery." She states, in a letter to The Capital Times, that she has sent a copy of this statement to the Madison newspapers. A copy of the statement was placed on the desk of each member of the county board last night. The statement contains many indications that the subject matter was furnished by Frederick A. Mix. The statement follows:

"My attention has been called to an editorial in your paper under heading, 'ROT!'

"I have a right to presume that this refers to the investigation into the cause of my husband's death, which has been under way since last May by former District Attorney Roman Heilmann and his successor, Theodore Lewis.

"Permit me to say that for nearly 2,000 years the careless, the ignorant, and the unbeliever, have walked the earth, busy with their own little selfish affairs, and have cried out 'ROT!' concerning the Christian religion, but its great truths have not been controverted by their opposition.

"Neither can the indisputable facts concerning the life and death of Richard Scott Lawrence be obliterated by the word 'ROT!' used by unidentified newspaper men, who have been unable and unwilling for nearly three years to take cognizance of the fact that a monstrous wrong has been committed against both the living and the dead.

"Before you use the words 'ROT!' and 'Criminal Fake' again, if this slur was intended for the Lawrence case, please answer the following questions:

"FIRST—Why was Richard S. Lawrence never seen after death by his widow?

"SECOND—Why was burial made at Forest Hill cemetery without a particle of clothing on the body?

"THIRD—Why were his garments cut to shreds before the funeral?

"FOURTH—Why did a lawyer and other individuals call upon me the evening of my husband's death, in an effort at that unseemly hour to start tracing my husband's sources and settling up his worldly affairs?

"FIFTH—Why was his safety deposit box opened after death, without authority? This question does not refer to the occasion when the box was opened in the presence of Mr. Ellis Prunditt, president of the First National bank.

"SIXTH—Why have at least three different stories been told by one man concerning the condition of the body of Richard S. Lawrence after death?

"SEVENTH—Why have different people been approached with offers of money, made by individuals who have been accused of no offense?

"EIGHTH—Why should presumably innocent people say, before any accusation has been made: 'If we knew what the charges were against us, we could be prepared for it'?

"NINTH—Why have hours been spent digging in the cellar, under out-buildings, and in the yard of our home in South Madison, at various times since the death of my husband, the first occasion being within a short time after the funeral, by individuals who now meet the question of my husband's financial circumstances with a laugh, and my contentions with a sneer?

"TENTH—Why should friends of mine be credited with remarks they never made, to people they never knew, in an endeavor to discredit me in my home community?

"ELEVENTH—Why should such extreme economy in the matter of county funds be advocated concerning the investigation of my husband's death? He and his parents have been buried in Madison, and have been tax-payers for over seventy-five years, and are entitled to all the considerations of justice and good citizenship, both in life and death.

"Until your paper is able to answer the above questions to the satisfaction of the reading public, kindly refrain from the use of such words as Rot and Criminal Fake, when referring to this terrible tragedy, and the later desecration of my husband's body at the grave, evidences of which have been witnessed by seven people besides myself.

"If the great state of Wisconsin, and the County of Dane, and the city of Madison, are in such financial straits that this matter must be taken up through other channels, I have plenty of friends who will come to the rescue of our commonwealth with both time and money. I am confident, however, that the fair-minded citizens and officials of our state and county will never refuse to have the Lawrence Case thoroughly investigated, regardless of who may be implicated."

BY CHESTER C. PLATT.

Although he could not predict whether higher or lower prices would prevail for this season's wheat, Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor, of the University of Wisconsin, told 700 delegates to the Get-Together Marketing Conference, which opened here this morning, that he regarded wheat as one of the safest crops to be raised this year. The carry-over of this crop is likely to be small, he said, while the carry-over of corn and all kinds of feed will be great.

Seven hundred delegates were present when the conference opened in Agricultural Hall.

"Cooperation on the basis of the commodity rather than the community is the secret of the greatest success in marketing," said Dean Russell in his opening address. He cited the great success of the co-operative associations of California where fruit growers used to get only three cents a pound for prunes, when consumers were paying 20 cents.

He cited also the remarkable success of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' federation which has obtained prices about one-quarter of a cent a pound in excess of that obtained by outside producers.

Dr. Taylor Speaks.

Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor of the University of Pennsylvania spoke on wheat production.

Dean Russell in introducing him said the conference had caught Dr. Taylor while he was on his way to Europe where he goes under the auspices of the American relief administration under Herbert Hoover.

As to the fall in the price of wheat Dr. Taylor showed the small reduction in the price of bread was due to the fact that a loaf of bread sold at 11 cents contains only four cents worth of flour and three cents worth of wheat.

He showed how the price of the entire crop of our wheat is determined by the export price even if we export only 10 per cent of our crop.

Russia Is Ignored.

In discussing the wheat market, all considerations of Russia were ignored. Conditions in Russia prevented that country from either buying or selling, he said. As to the imports and exports of wheat, Dr.

CHARGE MADE OF DEFAMING OF CHARACTER

Mrs. Annie Jennie, Cook at the Madison Club Placed Under Arrest

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Carl N. Hill is Retained to Defend Mrs. Jennie; Jackman for Lawrence

The first step taken by Edward J. Lawrence, Madison undertaker, who has figured prominently in the alleged Lawrence "mystery," to stop the gossip which throws suspicion upon his name, culminated this morning in the arrest of Mrs. Anna Jennie, cook at the Madison club, who is charged with criminal libel.

In a warrant sworn out for her arrest signed by Mr. Lawrence, he charges her with defamation of his character. Mrs. Jennie, after pleading not guilty was released under $500 bail.

Mr. Lawrence refused to make any statement with regard to the arrest. His attorney, Ralph W. Jackman, however, declared that the specific reason for Mrs. Jennie's apprehension is that it is claimed that she told certain persons she had been offered $700 by friends of Mr. Lawrence to keep secret what she knows about the alleged "murder mystery." She is also said to have told these persons that she is a detective, star and all, and has been working for some time on the case.

One by one the theories put forward by those who believe that a deep mystery surrounds the death of Mr. Lawrence, are being exploded. The incident of the mysterious hearing is one of them. It has been established that when an aunt of E. J. Lawrence, Mrs. Helen Lawrence, died last February, it was decided that the bedding should be disposed of. So the mattress of the bed was put into the hearse with the dead body. The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Mr. Lawrence, who, after attending to it, drove the hearse to the city dump to dispose of the bedding. Among those who helped him put the mattress into the hearse was Gerrit Corcoran, president treasurer of the Dane County Title Co.

LEWIS MEETS COUNTY BOARD

Will Lay Lawrence Case Before Body at Closed Session

The county board will meet Wednesday evening as a committee of the whole in executive session with Dist. Atty. Theodore G. Lewis, who will lay before them the matter of investigating the Lawrence case, according to a decision by the board last night.

Mr. Lewis brought the matter up last night at the first meeting of the board and asked that the committee on information be allowed to meet with him in a closed session, at which time he would state the various elements of the case. This plan was opposed by W. H. Sommers who declared that it was a matter that should be dealt with by the entire board, as no one would be justified in accepting a report from such a meeting without knowing the facts. The balance on hand at the end of the fourth quarter of 1920 was $222,945.33, according to the report of the settlement committee of the county board, which reported last night. Total receipts for the quarter were $515,556.65; disbursements $135,145.43.

W. H. Sommers, chairman of the committee on highways, reported that the question of hiring a county agricultural agent had not been agreed upon. He said that as a bill had been introduced into the legislature making it mandatory for each county to hire an agent, no action by the board would affect the result. The report was adopted.

D. L. Babcock introduced a resolution calling for an additional three months' help in the county clerk's office.

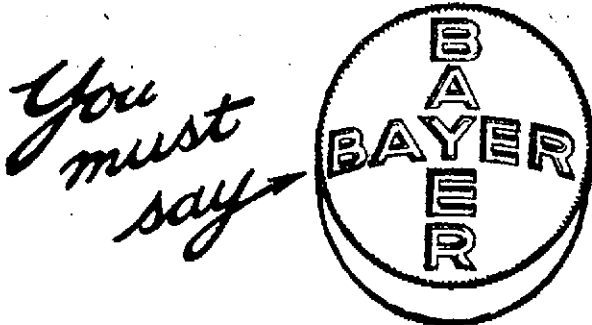

A request was made by the county health board that the supervisors reconsider their action at the November session when they refused to accept the recommendation to increase the salary of the county nurses.

Frank Sigelkow, McFarland, reported that an appropriation of $600 to the Dane County Humane society.

FRENCH HAS IMPORTANT UTILITY BILL

Gives R. R. Commission Power to Consolidate Telephone Companies

AFFECTS SUPERIOR CASE
C. E. Hanson Introduces Amendment Permitting Re-election of Sheriffs

By FRED L. HOLMES

A bill to give the state railroad commission power to consolidate telephone companies was offered in the lower house on Tuesday by Assemblyman J. B. French, Superior. While the bill is designed primarily to reach the Superior situation, here the two phone companies are to be owned by the same parties, it will have a like effect in some other sections of the state.

By the provisions of the bill, the broad commission shall have power upon petition of the city, "to combine or consolidate two or more telephone companies, franchises, properties and corporations operating separate systems of telephones in any such city upon such reasonable terms and conditions as it shall determine."

As in the present public utility law the city is required to file a petition stating the facts. The commission must then hold a public hearing as to the necessity of the change. Appeals from the order of the commission may be made to the supreme court.

Assemblyman C. E. Hanson, Pierce county, offered the constitutional amendment providing that a sheriff may succeed himself. This resolution went through the legislature two years ago with little opposition. If it passes at this session it will be submitted to a vote of the people in 1922.

Assemblyman C. E. Hanson also offered a bill for the making of an appropriation of $500 for the normal school fair at River Falls.

Hirst Tells Road School Why He Leaves Highway Job

State Commissioner Says He is Unwilling to Carry Responsibility for Proper Expenditure for Huge Road Funds

Speaking before the Wisconsin Road School this morning, A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, reviewed the work of the highway department and told the reasons why he had offered his resignation as state highway engineer effective not later than Dec. 31, 1921, or earlier at the pleasure of the state highway commission. Mr. Hirst has received a salary of $7,500 per year which is one of the highest paid in the state's service. He declared that there is and has been nothing in his relations with the highway commission to compel him to resign.

"It is nearly 14 years since I entered the highway service of Wisconsin," said Mr. Hirst. "In that time, under the impetus of the state aid (1911) and federal aid (1917) highway laws, the highway program in Wisconsin has reached tremendous proportions. There have been built 8,500 miles of all types of highway and 1,700 bridges at a total cost of $40,000,000. For the planning and execution of this work, I, as the chief engineer and executor of the state highway commission, have been personally responsible."

"For 1921 there is available a total of over $20,000,000. (Please note this total in comparison with the above total for 1912 to 1920 inclusive), for federal, state and county aid construction of roads and bridges in Wisconsin, exclusive of the amounts available for strictly town, village and city construction. This sum will not and should not all be spent, because we are not organized to spend it properly, but probably will cover 2,000 miles of all types of highway will be built. The years that have gone since 1907 have seen Wisconsin placed in the foremost rank as a state which is building roads as fast as sound business judgment warrants, and as a state which in the meanwhile has maintained a highway system of which most of her citizens are proud.

"I give these matters of record, not in a spirit of boastfulness, but simply in order that something of the magnitude of this great enterprise may be realized.

"In these accomplishments, through nearly 14 years of service, I have played my part. I am proud to have been connected with the state and with its highway work. The fact that no shadow of suspicion of crookedness or graft has ever fallen on any part of this great expenditure will always be one of my proudest memories.

"I have been content to serve because I loved the work and it was my one ambition to help to give Wisconsin a system of highways worthy, if possible, of the state and of its citizenry. It has not been profitable work, in terms of money, it has been hard work, and, at times, extremely trying. Nevertheless, I should gladly have continued for the rest of my active life had I felt reasonable assurance that public sentiment would support the legislature, the highway commission and the county boards in the payment of salaries adequate to maintain organizations of the proper capacity to handle with efficiency the tremendous expenditures ahead.

"As I look into the probable future, I am unwilling to continue to take the responsibility for the proper expenditure of the tremendous funds now available longer than is necessary for the state highway commission and the state chief engineer to select my successor. I shall relinquish my work with the most profound regret. One does not easily surrender in almost lifetime ambition unfulfilled."

FARM MEETING HEARS TAYLOR

Taylor presented the following figures:

The first column of imports represents the amount in millions of bushels that the respective countries expect to obtain, and the second column what they would like to secure if possible:

Imports of Wheat.	Minimum	Maximum
United Kingdom	220	250
France	45	75
Italy	35	65
Belgium	40	50
Germany	50	75
Poland	30	50
Austria	30	50
Other European countries	100	100
Non European countries	50	50
Total	600	725

Exports of Wheat.

In Millions of Bushels.
United States	250
Canada	200
India	15
Australia	100
Argentina	130
Balkans	45

Every seat in Agricultural hall, including the gallery, was filled, while Dr. Taylor was speaking. This afternoon a pea canning conference is on the program. Dr. Taylor speaks again this evening on "The World's Baking Power."

Perhaps the most important feature of the program for today is the pea growers' and canners' conference, for it is believed that out of this meeting is to be developed an understanding which will result in the normal acreage of peas being planted in the state this spring. Last year Wisconsin canned two-thirds of the nation's pea crop.

Moulton B. Goff of Door county is the chairman of the conference committee.

E. B. Fred of the department of agricultural bacteriology will report on recent results from the use of inoculation cultures on Wisconsin's pea crop. The university supplied the pea growing counties last year.

A special conference of feeders and breeders of swine will be held in the hog barns. Frank B. Morrison, assistant director of the experiment station will report on recent developments in swine feeding. M. H. Scott, extension specialist in pork production, will define the type of hog that best serves Wisconsin conditions.

KIDNAPERS GET HASTY TRIAL

Fear of Popular Wrath Causes Quick Action in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES—Popular wrath and desire for instant justice have so fired Hollywood citizens against the kidnapers of Mrs. Gladys Withers, who was abducted Tuesday evening and rescued early yesterday, that a hasty arraignment was held in a justice court yesterday afternoon and the prisoners and confessed kidnapers, Arthur Watson Carr and Floyd L. Carr, cousins, were held over to the Superior Court in order that they might be placed behind the secure bars of the Los Angeles county jail.

Hundreds thronged the courtroom when the men were arraigned. During the hearing the two abductors told their story, after which they asked for release. The crowd howled wrathfully at this supplication. The court set the bail at $50,000 each.

Not since early days has the citizens' ire reached such a high point. It is feared by authorities that the

PACKERS FIGHT CONTROL BILL

Sen. Kenyon Charges Monopoly Sways Wyoming Legislature

(By Federated Press)

WASHINGTON—Two hours before the Senate was to vote on the packer control bill, which proposes a mild degree of federal regulation for the big meat packing combine, Sen. Warren of Wyoming drew from his pocket a telegram of protest against the measure, sent from the Wyoming legislature. It described the bill as "aimed at the packing industry at a time when our business conditions are in a state of unparalleled disturbance and distress."

This is the same Warren whose fencing-in of government grazing lands was investigated and established, years ago, by a congressional committee. Wyoming is a state whose livestock industry has been bled white by the Chicago packers for generations past.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa, arose. "I think I know what the vote on that resolution was," he said, "and how it came about and the purpose of it. There are some 16 stockmen in the lower house of the Wyoming legislature. I understand nearly all of them opposed it. There are nine stockmen in the Wyoming senate; there were nine votes against it in the senate. Just how many bankers, if any, holding Swift stock voted for it I do not know. I do know that there went from the El Paso convention (of the National Livestock association) a representative of the Swift interests to the state of Wyoming, and he has been in charge of this matter."

"Instantly on the defensive, Warren tried to show that Kenyon was merely guessing as to how the stockmen in the legislature had voted. Kenyon refused to be diverted from the point. He insisted that this resolution was an attempt to shut the junior senator from Wyoming, Sen. Kendrick, president of the National Livestock Association, who has been active in promoting the packer-control bill.

"It simply illustrates," said Kenyon, warmly, "the methods and power of this gigantic monopoly, which cares nothing for law, nothing for the courts, and is able to swing entire legislatures of States, and join with it in this instance the Republican majority in the Legislature of Wyoming. It is a piece of cheap politics to injure the junior senator from Wyoming. They will not accomplish much if they are trying to discredit him, but it will arouse the folks back home, who are beginning to understand the packers' tactics, and who are beginning to understand the propaganda that they spread from every source, even swinging legislatures."

Warren indignantly denied that the Wyoming legislature could be influenced by any interest but the public good. Kenyon retorted that it was strange that Wyoming had the only legislature to protest against packer legislation, in view of the fact that a Swift agent was sent to Cheyenne to take charge of packer interests there.

When roll-call arrived, several doubtful senators saw fit to vote for the packer control bill.

SEEK CONTROL OF THE NURSES

State Board of Education Would be Given Powers Under New Bill

There will be introduced into the legislature during the present week a bill transferring the administration of the registration of nurses from the Board of Medical Examiners to the State Board of Education. This bill is prepared under the direction of Mrs. Adelaide Northman of the Training School for Nurses in connection with the Milwaukee County Hospital, who is chairman of the Legislative Committee of the League of Nursing Education.

The bill provides for a committee on nursing education made up of representatives of the Wisconsin State Nurses' Association, the League of Nursing Education, the Hospital Association, the State Medical Association, and the Public Health Nursing Bureau. The representatives on this committee are designated by the associations themselves. The Secretary of the State Board of Education is made Chairman of the Committee. This committee nominates to the State Board of Education the Committee on Nursing Examiners; it also nominates the supervisor of Nursing Education, who will have charge of the detailed administration of the work and make the investigations required under the act.

Training Schools for Nurses may, under their own application, be placed upon the accredited list as provided in the act. Nurses graduated from accredited schools only may use the title of "Registered Nurse."

The following powers are given to the State Board of Education:

To supervise and maintain standards for all schools for nurses.

To assist in placing executives in hospitals and in recruiting students nurses.

To provide for and require the examination and registration of nurses.

To make a study of nursing education and generally to initiate rules, regulations and policies which will tend to improve nursing education.

To make such rules and regulations for the administration of the Nursing Education Law not inconsistent therewith.

To place schools of nursing on the accredited list on application of such schools and a showing that such schools are entitled to be so placed under the rules of the state board of education.

Provision is made in the law for the recognition of the registration certificates of other states and for the same reciprocity of certificates of this state between the states.

ASKS HOUSEWIVES TO USE MADE IN WISCONSIN GOODS

Mrs. N. K. Jones Addresses Short Course for State Women

"Housewives should use 'Made in Wisconsin' products to decrease costs and to contribute to the growth of industrial Wisconsin," urged Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones at the short course for Wisconsin women at the university this afternoon.

"The state ranks first in the production of butter, cheese and canned peas; third in canned milk; fourth in hosiery and knit goods; sixth in furniture; seventh in confectionery; eighth in men's clothing; eighth in millinery and lace goods; ninth in soap; eleventh in canned and preserved fish; eleventh in flour mill and grist mill products; eleventh in woolen and worsted goods; and twelfth in bread and baked goods. These are only a few of the products that immediately touch the housewife. Looking at the labels of goods will reveal many other necessary articles that are made within the state. By insisting upon getting native products whenever possible the housewife can contribute materially to the development of the state," explained Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Jones illustrated her talk by a special demonstration of shoes, knitted goods, towels, overalls and various kinds of Wisconsin grown foods.

"How to Use Sorghum in Cookery," will be demonstrated tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium of the Chemistry Building. Mrs. Jones will give out specially prepared recipes showing how this particular Wisconsin product may be used widely in cooking and baking. Several recipes will be prepared for the audience.

Bandits Seize $30,000 As Employees Look On
CHICAGO — Seven "two gun" bandits escaped with $30,000 from the Kenwood Trust and Savings bank this morning with a dozen spectators looking on. Flourishing their weapons the bandits cowed 16 employees, nine of them girls. The employees had been carrying the money from the vaults to the cashier in preparation for the day's business. The bandit leader stationed one of his men at the front door, three were commissioned to hustle the employees in a rear room and the leader, with the aid of another robber forced his way in the paying tellers cage and secured several bags of currency. The men then ran to their automobile, threading their way through awed spectators, none of whom tried to stop the desperadoes.

HAPPY FELSCH PUTS UP BONDS

Indicted Sox Player in Chicago to Deposit $10,000

CHICAGO—Oscar "Happy" Felsch, one of the eight White Sox indicted with seven alleged gamblers and bribers in connection with the 1919 world's series scandal, slipped quietly into town yesterday and filed bond for $10,000 for his appearance at the trial under the two charges against him—obtaining money by false pretenses and conspiracy.

Felsch himself would not talk, leaving that part of the day's program to his attorney, Thomas D. Nash. And this is what Mr. Nash had to say:

"All we ask is that the White Sox fans, and any others who may be interested in keeping these ball players from playing ball this year, withhold judgment until this case is tried. And we want the trial as quickly as possible."

Anent a story printed in New York and sent from Chicago that the indictments against the Sox would be "pigeon-holed" in the state's attorney's office, Mr. Nash said:

"So far as we are concerned, no effort will be made to avoid trial. On the other hand, we will insist upon a trial in open court."

Wonderful Effect of Reole in Filling Out Hollow Cheeks With New Firm Flesh

Regardless of what and how much you eat, if the nervous system is unstrung and the iron has been burned out of the blood, the long, drawn face and hunched expression will remain. But put Reole into your blood, let the nerve centers come in contact with it, and then you have started upward. There is one component of Reole that actually provokes an increase of flesh. In combination with this element there are ingredients that increase red corpuscles enormously in certain anemic conditions. In a day or two the appetite improves in a way that is a revelation to those who found it hard work to eat, and soon the bluish pallor of the skin is replaced with the pinkish hue of health. You now not only feel well, you look it, such is the remarkable influence of Reole in but a few short days. But this is not all. Reole has intensified the activity of the vitæ processes to such an extent that the old feeling of exhaustion after effort is completely gone. It is certainly a most comfortable and satisfactory feeling of reassurance, and there is no other condition to be compared to it.

Ask any of the clerks at The Menger's Pharmacy and any other leading drug store about Reole. They are selling it and recommending it upon the strength of what they see every day, men and women the very picture of health who six weeks before were nervous and bloodless dependents. Get a $1.00 box of Reole today and live.—Adv.

COMMONS HAS PLANS FOR EMPLOYERS TO PAY UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

Measure Will be Introduced in Legislature This Week; Would Compel Employers to Form Mutual Companies to Carry on Work

A bill to compel employers to pay insurance benefits to their workers in periods of unemployment will be introduced in the Wisconsin legislature this week backed by the American Federation of Labor.

Prof. John R. Commons, is the author of the bill.

The measure provides that: Any person over sixteen years of age who has been employed in industry for a period of at least twenty-six weeks, is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits for a maximum period of thirteen weeks on the basis of one week's benefits for each four weeks worked.

The benefits proposed are $1.50 per day for adult men and women and 75 cents a day for boys and girls between ages of 16 and 18.

The employer for whom the beneficiary worked shall pay the insurance through a mutual insurance company of which he must be a member.

Workers who are idle as a result of a strike or lockout are not entitled to insurance.

Unemployed workers are subject to being placed in other positions through the state free employment offices, but are not required to accept work in which the wages are lower or working conditions inferior to those in the place of last employment.

If an unemployed worker receiving insurance benefits is offered work in another locality in the state his last employer is given the alternative of paying his railroad fare to the new job or continuing to pay his benefits.

Designed primarily as a measure to provide insurance for the unemployed, the bill in reality will, according to Prof. Commons, have a much different effect. To escape the burden of insurance, employers will, he believes, readjust their business in a way virtually to eliminate periods of unemployment. This applies particularly to lines in which there is seasonal activity.

Explaining his plan before the Madison Rotary club, Prof. Commons recently declared that the fear of unemployment was responsible for most labor difficulties and a tendency to slow up production in order that the work might last, as long as possible. Eliminate this fear, he said, and difficulties with labor will be minimized and production increased.

Last year the state sent Prof. Commons and six of his students on a tour of the country during which they visited many of the principal manufacturing plants, including open shops, closed shops and factories with so-called "industrial democracies." The present bill is the result of their observations.

It provides that the Industrial Commission shall investigate conditions in Wisconsin. "If it is found," he bill says, "that there is unemployment, either general or local, permanent or temporary, and a situation arises in industries, factories, workshops or other places of employment which affects or endangers the public welfare, the commission shall issue an order and file such order with the secretary of state, and such order shall state that such a condition exists," whereupon, the bill continues, the insurance act will become effective.

The insurance is extended to all employees of firms, persons, unincorporated companies, partnerships, corporations, including public service corporations, with the exception of farm workers, in individual cases, in excess of $500 annually, and persons whose annual income exceeds $1,500, or who are mainly dependent upon some other person for their livelihood.

The procedure for collecting insurance provides that on the fourth day after being laid off, the employee shall notify his district employment deputy, who is to be the head of the free employment office now maintained by the state. One week later he can collect his first benefits, $9 for an adult and $4.50 for a minor.

Employers are prohibited from deducting any sum from the wages of employees, or soliciting any refund to meet the cost of insurance, and written agreements to waive insurance benefits are declared invalid. The benefits are not to be assignable, subject to attachment, or liable in any way for any employee's debts.

Where an employee has lost employment through his own fault or voluntarily leaves his work benefits are to be withheld for six weeks. Employees who are idle as a result of a strike or lockout are disqualified from benefiting by the act, as are inmates of prisons and workhouses supported wholly or in part by public funds.

All employers affected by the act are required to provide for payment of insurance along the lines laid down by the present workmen's compensation law. Each mutual insurance company formed must embrace at least 200 employers, with a minimum of 5,000 separate risks.

An employment advisory board, consisting of a chairman to be chosen at large and two members selected by the employees and two by the employers of the state is provided to assist the Industrial Commission in administering the act. They would have authority to hear disputes, adjust claims and recommend readjustment of wages and working conditions to meet with changes in the cost of living and other factors affecting wages.

Every employee would be required to carry a "service card" to be stamped by the district deputy to indicate his periods of employment. To prevent sales or exchange of the cards, the act provides that:

"Any person who buys or offers for sale, takes or gives in exchange, or pawns or takes in pawn any service card, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 90 days or forfeit of an amount not exceeding $100 or both."

For making false statements to violate the law a fine of $500 or three months imprisonment, or both is provided. For employers who refuse or neglect to comply with its provisions, or who deduct or collect money from employee's wages to pay the cost of insurance, the act provides a fine of $25 for each separate offense.

Another bill is being prepared under the direction of the A. F. of L. to provide compulsory Americanization of foreigners employed in industry. They would be required to attend vocational schools twelve hours a week until they are able to read and write the English language, with the provision that school hours should be during working hours and on the employer's time. While prepared as an Americanization bill, leaders explain the plan has the dual purpose of discouraging the importation of illiterate immigrants to work in factories.

Prof. Keynes Says Germany Can't Possibly Pay Huge Sum

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON—It will be impossible for Germany to pay the amounts fixed for her reparation debt to the allies by the supreme allied council at Paris last week, says Prof. John Maynard Keynes, principal representative of the British treasury at the Versailles peace conference. He argues that Germany, to have surplus exports worth 200,000,000 pounds, must have total exports worth at least 700,000,000 pounds.

Had Terrible Cough and Night Sweats

Cough about gone, eats and sleeps well, gained 12 pounds.

"In December, 1913, I had a fearful cough, and my physician ordered me to change climate immediately. I went to San Antonio, Texas, and stayed in a sanatorium. Left there and came to Oklahoma City in October, 1915. Had no appetite, could not sleep, had night sweats and was losing from one to three pounds a week. I also had catarrh of the bowels, which the doctors had been unable to relieve.

"Relatives urged me to try Milks Emulsion. I did so and began to improve, slowly at first, but steadily. My weight has increased 12 pounds. I have no temperature, and my cough is about gone. SOLID, ONE-PIECE CAST-STEEL FRAME

Its solid, one-piece cast-steel frame makes an engine bed as solid as concrete. There is no bend, no twist to this frame. It always holds the parts in perfect alignment, and when it is necessary to put on new parts, they always fit perfectly. The tremendous twists and strains of a rough field do not harm the Hart-Parr 30.

You'll Need A Hart-Parr More Than Ever This Year

Experience is the best teacher we have in everything and that is why we select the Hart-Parr tractor as the one that we wanted to sell. It is built by the "Founders of the Tractor Industry." Back of it are twenty years' experience in building tractors; twenty years learning how and why; twenty years digging out and perfecting improvements that have made the Hart-Parr 30 a leader as a powerful, sturdy, tractor, simple enough for the farmer to drive, adjust and expert.

Farmers are going to need tractors more than ever this year. The reason is because he is not going to get war prices for his crops and he must raise them cheaper to keep his profits where they belong.

We'd like to talk it over with you. Show you what other Hart-Parr 30 owners have done and show you why it is the best tractor value on the market.

A Hart-Parr 30 will cut your production costs. We know it—we can prove it.

IT'S DOING THE WORK FOR HIM SAYS SHAVEL

Milwaukee Man Says He Was Going Down Hill Rapidly Before He Got Tanlac

According to the testimony of multiplied thousands who have tried it there is nothing so well adapted to the needs of a rundown system as Tanlac, and in every case where a fair test of its powers is made another enthusiastic witness is the inevitable result. Recently in telling of the gratifying results he had derived from the medicine G. H. Shavel, of 1067 Murray Ave., Milwaukee, telegraph operator for the Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co., said:

"Before I got Tanlac, my digestion was not good, and I suffered from indigestion and a sluggish liver. My appetite was a way off, and I didn't relish my food. I had a bad taste in my mouth and I was so restless I couldn't get proper sleep. In fact I was in very much of a rundown condition, and was getting worse all the time.

"I noticed the big improvement one of my friends was getting out of Tanlac, and began taking the medicine myself. Well, I'm just on my second bottle now, but it is certainly doing the work for me. My appetite has returned, and the indigestion, sluggishness and kidney disorder have just about disappeared altogether. At the rate I'm now improving, in a little more Tanlac will fix me up in the best of health, and I'm certainly going to stick right to the medicine."

Tanlac is sold by the Luckey Pharmacy—Adv.

Unemployment Not Decreased, Report

WASHINGTON—The survey of business and financial conditions of the country for January by the federal reserve board said industrial operations have not increased sufficiently to effect a material reduction in the wide-spread unemployment prevailing a month ago.

Tenants' Complaints Fewer Says Bureau

MILWAUKEE—Dr. Thomas F. Thom, head of the sanitary division of the Milwaukee Rent Bureau, says that complaints from tenants, many of them on average of about two or three a week, have been the past few months of the leading ordinance the number often ran high as ten. The complaints charge landlords with failure to furnish ample heat and have materially decreased, he said.

Landlords Sued by Milwaukee Rent Body

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Following complaints by tenants of several apartments, the rent bureau instituted voluntary action for approximately 130 tenants against five landlords. The rentals ranged from $35 to $70, and the apartments owned by each landlord from 14 to 48.

SWEAR OFF TOBACCO

"No-To-Bac" has helped thousands to break the costly, nerve-shattering tobacco habit. Whenever you have a longing for a cigarette, cigar, pipe, or for a chew, just place a harmless No-To-Bac tablet in your mouth instead of tobacco. The powerful desire for the habit may be completely broken, and you are "letter off" mentally, physically, financially. It's so easy, so simple. Get a box of No-To-Bac and if it doesn't release you from all craving for tobacco in any form, your druggist will refund your money without question.—Adv.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and you have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosen a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ESCAPE INJURY AT STOUGHTON

Auto Truck Hit by Train; Two Men Jump in Nick of Time

STOUGHTON—The absence of the gas tender at the depot crossing resulted Sunday forenoon in the wrecking of a Ford truck on which Tolmann Johnson, of McFarland, was hauling 25 cans of milk to the condenser. Johnson, with whom was Archie Neeser, McFarland, was driving along Main street from the west, and did not notice that a west-bound freight was approaching the crossing until someone called out to him in warning. Had he kept going he would have cleared the track nicely, but alarmed by the sight of the train, he put on the emergency brake when within a few feet of the truck, killing his engine, and the truck, after a short slide on the icy pavement, came to a stop right on the track. Both young men hurriedly jumped off from the truck, getting out of way only a moment or two before the locomotive hit the truck. The truck was pushed sideways ahead of the freight, clear past the depot, until the engine came to a stop. The truck chassis was jammed.

Andrew Quam, was taking his three children to Sunday in town, and was driving along the concrete pavement on N. Page street. He was bringing his car to a stop when it began to skid, and after reversing its direction, it turned over on its side. Luckily no one was hurt in the least.

Former Postmaster, Ed Drotning, on his way home from a brief call on his sister, Mrs. Peter Hamsun, Sunday morning, fell on the sidewalk and was rendered unconscious. He was carried to his home, and a physician was called, but no bones were found to be broken.

The Luther League and the Dorcas Society of the Lutheran church gave a reception Sunday evening at the Central Christ church for the Lutheran graduates of the class of 1921 of our high school. A short musical program was given at 7:30, consisting of a violin duet by Helen Melnaas and Veronica Midgard, a special number by the Junior choir of the First Lutheran church, a piano solo by Esther Klabo, a vocal duet by Gerhard Stubbjorn and Victor Severson, and a piano duet by Evelyn Severson and Maxine Peters. Selmer Larson gave a talk on "Christian Education and Our Church Schools."

Keep in mind the militia benefit dance at the armory this evening. Music by Muessehl's Ragadours. Master George McFarland, who makes his home with his uncle and aunt, Alderman and Mrs. John Selma, Saturday afternoon fell off from a scaffold at Peter Hagen's residence, where he was playing with some other little fellows, but he escaped with a sprained ankle.

Regular communication of Kegoza Lodge of F. & A. M. this evening. Work in the E. A. Degree. By order of W. M.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. has been postponed, and will be held later in connection with the reception for the new members. E. H. Kessler recently purchased through The Olsen-Flugum Agency a residence lot located on the corner of N. Madison street and Roy avenue. The lot was formerly the property of L. D. Webb who for some years past has resided on his fruit ranch near Fair Oaks, California. Mr. Kessler is Purchasing Agent for the Stoughton Wagon Company and is planning to build a modern residence on the lot this spring.

Bennett Johnson of Oregon was a Stoughton visitor yesterday.

L. O. Flugum of The Olsen-Flugum agency made a business trip to Oregon yesterday.

The streets here were so sloppy Sunday that autos also skidded. One auto truck loaded with machinery skidded and struck the curb with such force that the machinery was thrown out of the truck onto the sidewalk.

Mrs. SELCHERT'S DAUGHTER

Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Horicon, Wis.—"My young daughter had been troubled for several months with backache and a bad feeling in her stomach. She did not want to eat anything, while before she was so hungry she could hardly wait for her meals. The doctors gave her medicine but it did not help. One day I was reading a little book of yours and it reminded me that when I was a young girl I took several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So she went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking the second one she could eat and has not had backache since. In all she took six bottles of it. She goes to school and on Saturdays helps with the housework. She is a normal, healthy girl now. You have my permission to publish this letter as a testimonial for the Vegetable Compound."

—Mrs. FRANK SELCHERT, 150 Larabee St., Horicon, Wisconsin.

Mother's love over the country have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to be a most reliable remedy for such conditions.

Illinois Central Directs Attention to the Grade Crossing Problem

For the four-year period ended December 31, 1920, there were 4,350 persons killed and 12,750 persons injured in automobile grade crossing accidents in the United States.

For the same period there were 158 persons killed and 659 persons injured in automobile grade crossing accidents on the Illinois Central System. Analysis of these cases shows that crossings considered the safest are actually the most dangerous.

A serious automobile grade crossing accident, involving personal injury or loss of life, is usually followed by a demand upon the railway for the elimination or "protection" of the crossing involved.

Crossing gates do not entirely eliminate accidents. People become educated to rely upon the gateman instead of upon their own faculties. It the gateman errs, the danger of accident is very great.

Electric warning bells do not entirely eliminate accidents. If they ring a great deal, automobilists disregard them. In addition, there is always the possibility that a bell may not be in order just at the moment of greatest danger.

Crossing flagmen are not infallible. The human element enters into most accidents, and crossing flagmen are like other human beings. Some of the disastrous automobile grade crossing accidents have occurred at crossings where flagmen were on duty.

One of the results of crossing "protection" is to teach the public that crossings are safe. The opposite should be taught. All railway grade crossings are dangerous—the "protected" as well as the unprotected crossings. This should be impressed upon the minds of everybody, beginning with the children in the schools.

There are about 8,000 grade crossings on the Illinois Central System. It would cost approximately four hundred million dollars, or substantially more than the combined stock and bond issues of the Company, to eliminate them by separation of the grades. The following is quoted from the report made by the Grade Crossing Committee of the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners at Washington in November, 1920: "To eliminate all grade crossings in the United States would probably cost as much as all the railroads in the United States have cost."

Outstanding features of this question are: 1—Inability of the railroads to eliminate all grade crossings at any period within present vision. 2—The unreasonable insistence upon the railways doing things for them that cannot be done for all. Every community has its dangerous crossings.

One state could not reasonably expect the railways to eliminate all of its grade crossings unless the same thing were done in neighboring states—in all states. The same principle applies to cities and towns.

The railways grade crossing problem is usually considered from two viewpoints the railways and the public. There is the viewpoint of engineers and firemen, which should also be considered. Their duties are nerve-racking, and the habit of automobilists in racing to crossings, and darting upon the track immediately in front of locomotives, has a great tendency to confuse and distress them. They do not want to be involved in accidents causing personal injury or loss of life. They ought to have some assurance that an automobile will be brought to a stop before it is permitted to cross a railway track.

The benefits derived from elimination of grade crossings by the construction of overhead bridges and underpasses—the only plan promising absolutely safety—accrue largely to the public safety and convenience. Therefore, when crossings are eliminated, the expense should be divided on some fair basis between the taxpayers receiving the benefits and the railway. If the people of a community paid in proportion to the benefits received when a crossing is eliminated, demands for elimination would be less frequent. More crossings could be eliminated.

The automobile, in proper hands, is an agency of safety at railway grade crossings. It can be driven up close to the tracks and stopped in perfect safety. That cannot always be done with a spirited horse. Therefore, the increasing use of the automobile and the decreasing use of the horse should be solving the grade crossing problem, instead of making it worse.

We recognize there are crossings that should be eliminated, but the crying need is for some plan of action that will prevent loss of life and destruction of property in automobile grade crossing accidents that can be put into effect immediately. One practical remedy, which would cost but little, would be to inaugurate a great crusade against carelessness of automobilists at railway grade crossings. Require them to Stop, Look and Listen. No automobilist who does that will ever meet with an accident at a railway crossing.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central Railroad Company.

Signs of Spring Are Appearing in State

LA CROSSE, Wis.—A live wasp in a box on the editor's desk in the La Crosse Tribune and Press office, was found near the Northwestern freight office here. A letter from a newspaper subscriber reported that a grey wolf, belonging to E. J. Heyer of La Crosse, has been shedding its winter coat for the past two weeks; also declared that robins and blackbirds are "quite a common sight in the vicinity of the rubber mills."

"NOW-A-DAYS" says the Good Judge

A man can get a heap more satisfaction from a small chew of this class of tobacco, than he ever could get from a big chew of the old kind. He finds it costs less, too. The good tobacco taste lasts so much longer he doesn't need to have a fresh chew nearly as often. Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

Reaching Mr. Finnegan's home, the boys went to the rear, and were delighted to have him answer their knock in person.

"Good morning, and what brings you here?" he asked.

"We've come to ask if you want to sell one of your goats," said Tom.

"Well, now, that all depends on how much the buyer will pay. You see, my kids are very fine ones."

"Yes, we've often seen them in the yard, and they look as good as our own Billy," agreed Harry readily.

"How much is one worth?" asked Tom, bristling with business.

"Suppose we go out to see them," replied Mr. Finnegan, leading the way to a small shed at the back of the lot.

"I've said I'd not sell them for less than ten dollars, but seeing it's your boys, and your father is a friend of mine, I'll say five."

"Oh, dear, and we wanted two, one for each of us," lamented Harry.

"You do? And how much money have you?"

"Six dollars and three cents, and we need ten!"

"Seeing what a very good friend your father is, I'll let you have them for that," said the owner of the kids.

"What?" they chorussed, their eyes dancing at the proposal.

"Just right! six dollars and three cents and you own two kids."

"Aren't they fine?" said Harry, eyeing the kids with supreme satisfaction.

"Count out the money, Tom, and we'll take them home with us."

Two happier boys never turned into the Treat drive than Tom and Harry that Saturday noon.

Mr. Treat had come in from the fields, and Mrs. Treat was fretting because her sons were not on hand ready for dinner, and went to the front veranda to watch for their appearing.

"I want to know what those boys are up to now. Father, come out here this minute. Is it goats those lads are carrying?"

"Looks like it to me," returned her husband with a silent chuckle.

"As if I haven't had enough bother with Billy Whiskers!"

"Come in here, Tom," called Mr. Treat, as the boys were making for the stables. "What's this?"

"Why, they're our new kids! Bought them from Mr. Finnegan. Billy's been such a good investment and three will earn just three times as much. We've one apiece now, and you needn't worry any more about our educations."

"Boys!" gasped their mother, throwing up her hands in amazement.

"Never mind, mother! This is their first business venture, and we must see what they make of it."

"But—but, father you can't realize what it means. Three goats!"

"There, there, don't fret! Billy Whiskers will likely take good care of them. Let the boys have a chance."

When Mr. Treat allied himself with his sons in this way, their mother usually yielded, and so it happened that Tom and Harry lost their purchases to the barn for safe keeping, and Billy introduced the kids as his "twins" to all the barnyard inhabitants.

The title clung to them, for they were as like as two peas, and as long as they lived at Cloverleaf Farm they were known far and wide as the "twins."

Years afterwards, when Billy Whiskers was old and feeble, the children of the twins, and his grandchildren by adoption, would clamor for a story, Billy would relate his adventures at the Fair just as you have read them.

(Tomorrow we will begin new adventures of the goats which will be as exciting and as funny as all the others.)

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 17 years of age and engaged to a boy 19 years old. My parents object to my going with him.

I have a step-father and he isn't the least bit good to me, and I cannot see anything else to do but marry.

The boy has proved that he loves me and he is awfully nice to me. He gave up his best sweetheart up for me when I came home from college. Please tell me what to do.

A. V. F.

Do not marry now. The times are too hard and you would get a wrong start. It will be better to put up with unkindness from your step-father than to marry when you could not get along from want of money. There are very few young men of 19 who could possibly support a wife with prices so high.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a fellow who most girls consider radical, but I do abhor rouge, lipstick and eyebrow pencils, and not a few girls nowadays use them.

I admire a quiet girl, one who goes out but once or twice a week, and one who considers herself too good for a few common persons. Also, I generally pick the blonds, although I have no particular reason why.

Another thing I dislike to see is a young girl running to every dance that comes along; nothing seems to lower a girl so quickly.

I know one girl in particular whom I admire greatly but who is too young to receive my attentions. I don't mind waiting, however, and when it comes time I hope to have a clean record to show her.

Please criticize me as much as you see necessary and I will be more than thankful.

JUST PLAIN BILL.

You certainly have a critical nature. I would advise you to look for the qualities you do like and spend less time thinking about imperfections and failings. It is a fine thing to be an idealist, but you are apt to be disappointed as you go through life. It is a very fine thing to look for the soul back of the painted face.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been keeping steady company with a certain fellow for two years and over. He has gone with other girls while he was going with me. Do you think he would have gone with anyone else if he cared for me?

We have been promised several times and for some reason broken it. He has gone to another town to work and drives sixty-five miles to see me once a week on Saturday and goes back on Sunday.

About nine months ago he got me a very fine diamond ring, and the last time he was back he got me a ruby. Do you think he cares for me?

A JOLLY KID.

Yes, I should say that the young man cares for you. My understanding of "steady company," however, is that neither party should go with anyone else.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of sixteen and am considered very pretty. I am not allowed to get with boys or associate with them, as my girl friend does. I have not many girl friends and very seldom go out.

My mother says that when I wear my dresses longer I can have company and go out with other girls. Please tell me how long I should wear my dresses. I am considered very tall.

LONESOME.

It is difficult to advise you about the length of your skirts without seeing you. I should say that eight or ten inches from the floor would be a good length for a tall girl of sixteen.

A man who says a mean thing about another man isn't half as mean as the man who repeats it.

An Oven Dinner—Procure a slice of steak, from two to three pounds, and one bunch of celery—wash and break in about eight-inch lengths. Put celery on the steak. Salt and pepper freely. Then roll steak around celery and tie and put in center of roaster.

Peel six small onions, six potatoes, four turnips (or parsnips), cut in pieces if large. Arrange these around steak in roaster. Salt and pepper to taste. One-half dozen cloves and a little parsley sprinkled over them add to the flavor. Put in one quart of boiling water, cover and roast about one and one-half hours.

Macaroni and Corn—Boil one-half package macaroni in salted water ten minutes, drain and in cold water.

To one well beaten egg add one cup of cooked corn, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar. Mix with macaroni and bake half an hour.

Apple Fluff—One egg, three baked apples, strained and mashed if necessary. Beat the white of the egg until stiff and dry. Sweeten. Add apples and beat. Put in sherberts and serve with the following sauce: One tablespoon butter, two tablespoons honey, one tablespoon dry bread crumbs, beaten yolk of egg. Beat for three minutes, cook until syrup. The sauce may be omitted.

Apple Baking Powder Biscuits—Take two cups sifted flour, four teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons lard, one-quarter teaspoon salt, mix, add enough water to mix soft dough, place on floured board, roll out and cut with biscuit cutter, insert thick slice of apple on top of each biscuit with sugar, cinnamon and dot of butter, bake. These are fine.

Bread Muffins—Three cups bread crumbs, two and one-half cups of milk, one cup flour, three eggs, one tablespoon melted butter, two teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt.

Cover the crumbs with milk and let soak fifteen minutes. Beat to a paste and add the beaten egg yolks, flour, salt, baking powder and the melted butter. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in buttered muffin pans in a quick oven twenty minutes.

STATE CURLING MEET OPENED

L. J. Tucker, Madison, is Entered in Portage Bonspiel

PORTAGE, Wis.—Wisconsin state curling bonspiel opened here Monday afternoon with 30 rinks of four men each participating for the three main events. Ice conditions are splendid and the bonspiel points to be one of the greatest in the history of the association.

In the opening play President Fregeau of the Northwestern Curling association skipping rink from Duluth, Minn., won a spectacular game from Skip Snap Watson of Portage rink for a single point, 13 to 12.

Monday night Fregeau of Duluth plays Andrews' fast Portage four for a first place in second event for Conkle trophy. Skip Dunlop of Portage lost in the opening round of the main event to W. J. Thompson of the Portage rink, 12 to 5.

Jamieson of Portage lost an exciting game in the first round of the Conkle trophy event, 10 to 12, to Skip James Lamouth, Portage four.

Skip Hugo Schwartz put the E. J. Blass Portage rink out of the running in the first round of the third event, 14 to 11.

L. J. Tucker of Madison is playing George Marshall, Portage Engineers, for place in the sixteens of the main event.

La Crosse and Galesville rinks are expected Monday night and Portageville, Portage, and Lodi and Cambridge are in competition for places in the sixteens of main event.

Monday night the annual meeting of curlers occurs and the visitors will be entertained with a smoker. It is probable that Milwaukee will enter on Tuesday.

Comets Snow Under All-Stars, 22 to 4

The Comets defeated Armstrongs All-Stars, 22 to 4, in a decidedly one-sided game at the South Madison school auditorium. The line-up:

Comets—All-Stars
Hamacher, R.F., Thousand
O'Connell, L.F., Armstrong

Baskets—Richardson 7, Davis 3, Hamacher 1, Thousand 2.

strike out but only nine fell and he counted 230 for his first game.

The second game was started out with three strikes in a row and then came the first split of the event, a bad one in the fourth frame. Gottfredson then came back with five straight strikes and a spare with a strike back in the tenth for his highest score of 244.

A bad split in the ninth frame of the third game was all that prevented Gottfredson from going into the 700 column. He started out great in the first five frames, having even a better mark than in any of the other games, but falling down badly in the final frames caused him to fall down to a score of 211 for the third game which with the other two totaled 651.

Eddie Koch Stars.

Eddie Koch of Madison, a member of the Moose league, shot 641 to hold first place in the singles for several hours but now has slid down to third place.

Roswell Pickford, former Madison man, took second with 676 for his three games and a Green Bay bowler shot 681 for top position. F. J. Gauer, secretary of the Madison Bowling association, hit the timber for high single game in the doubles and singles rolling today, garnering 253 pins, and won a $10 prize.

Koch, whose average on his home alleys is but 171, shot in amazing fashion. He registered 245 in his first game, fell to 163 and then finished with 233. His 245 count was second only to Gauer's record as high single game during the day.

Other Madison scores today follow:

REINECKS DROP SLOW GAME TO TAIL ENDERS

Pantorioms Beat Cubs 24-12; Pilgrims Beat Baracas

Won	Lost	Pct.
Speth's Five	7	1 .875
Wingra Park	7	1 .875
Cubs	6	3 .667
Pilgrims	4	5 .444
Chamberlain-Vetter	3	5 .375
Y. M. C. A.	3	5 .375
Baracas	2	7 .222
Pantorium	2	7 .222

The Reinick & Krueger Cubs, weakened by the loss of Art Tauchen, star center, slipped considerably last night in the city basketball league, dropping a battle to the tail end Pantorium five and falling further behind the league leaders. Speth's Five and Wingra Park, both of whom have won seven games and lost but one.

The Pantorium quintet, which has strengthened much, easily outclassed the Cubs, though an easy victory for the latter was expected. With Tauchen missing, the Cubs lost a tremendous advantage at center and Walsh, playing that position for the Cleaners, scored seven baskets, enough to have won the contest, as the final score was 24 to 12.

The Pilgrims drew closer to the third-place Cubs by trouncing the Baraca club, 16 to 12. Heck started for the victors, while P. Lallier led the scoring for the clubmen.

The league leaders will swing into action tonight at 8:30 at the Lincoln school gym though they are not in much danger of receiving setbacks. The Wingra Parkers will meet Chamberlain-Vetter, which has been playing improved ball and may furnish an upset, and Speth's will mingle with the Y. M. C. A.

BILL AIMS AT BALL CROOKS

Drastic Measure is Introduced in New York Assembly

ALBANY, N. Y.—The New York state legislature had before it last night a bill designed to cleanse baseball from the possibility of anything approaching the Chicago baseball scandal.

Sen. Frederick W. Kavanaugh of Saratoga and Assemblyman John T. Morgan of Albany introduced a bill fixing a penalty of not more than $10,000 fine and imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than five years for any person attempting to bribe a baseball player or for any player accepting a bribe.

RICKARD WILL PROMOTE BOUT

To Back Dempsey-Carpentier Match Alone

NEW YORK — Tex Rickard will promote the Dempsey-Carpentier bout for the heavy-weight championship of the world, alone. He made his announcement late yesterday, after a conference with William A. Brady at which he agreed to take over the interests of both Brady and Charles B. Cochran of London, England, who is seriously ill.

The necessary papers will be drawn up within the next few days and with the signing of these Rickard will remain as sole promoter of the international contest. Under the new agreement he will become responsible for the entire amount of the promoters' guarantee or forfeit which totals $100,000.

There will be no change in the contract between the boxers and Rickard, except such as may be necessary by late developments. The date of the bout still remains Saturday, July 2, and the site of the contest any portion of the American continent or Cuba as may be named by Rickard not later than March 1.

Weather Favors Big Saranac Ice Event

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y.—Ideal weather conditions and perfect ice appear probable on Tuesday, when a field of seventy skaters will be sent away in the first senior and junior events of the National amateur skating championship scheduled to last three days. The entries include many of the leading skaters in this country and Canada.

ADELAIDE, Australia — The world's record for the 100-yard swimming event was broken here by Warren Kealeha, the Hawaiian swimming star.

Saratoga and Assemblyman John T. Morgan of Albany introduced a bill fixing a penalty of not more than $10,000 fine and imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than five years for any person attempting to bribe a baseball player or for any player accepting a bribe.

Human Life At Home

Wasting Disease is Levying Tribute Upon America Continually.

WE HAVE helped the Czech-Slovaks, the Austrians, and the Chinese, and it is right that we should do this. But let us not forget that our social agencies here at home are daily saving human lives.

Can you imagine anything worse than a slow death through wasting disease? Is not death itself preferable to losing one's reason? Would you not prefer to die rather than to go through life a helpless cripple? Yet one or another of these tragedies is being enacted daily in Wisconsin, through preventable causes.

How many people know that the nervous child who is making a failure in school and is on the road to failure in life may be the child of great ability if given attention by a specialist in mental hygiene? Stuttering, stammering, or any disorder of speech may be but the symptoms of a nervous disorder which can be cured. Systematic attention to the underweight child in our schools or instruction of expectant mothers in proper prenatal care may be the means of saving a child to a life of happiness and usefulness; yet through lack of knowledge or interest in these matters, children are being doomed to grow up handicapped and miserable. The examinations for military service disclosed the appalling spread of preventable disease and physical defects.

During the past year a movement has been inaugurated which has made a considerable stride toward interesting people in such work. Through the Wisconsin State Conference of Social Work with offices in Madison the various state social agencies and departments and many individuals interested in social problems have united to promote this work of prevention. The State Conference accomplishes this through various methods. For instance, at Platteville, January 22-24 this agency conducted a District Conference of Social Work for THREE COUNTIES, GRANT, IOWA AND LAFAYETTE. These are strictly rural communities, with no town larger than 5,000 population. Moreover, in this district there has been manifested less interest in social problems than in many parts of the state.

But the Conference through systematic advertising attracted an attendance of 458 people comprising some of the leading citizens from 38 different towns. Public Health work, Mental Hygiene, Public Recreation, Child Welfare and other such topics were discussed by able speakers from our various state departments, and agencies, and by local people who attended. As a result, we are informed, there was a general spirit on the part of those present to do something in these 38 towns to prevent unnecessary wastage of human life and human character. Letters and local newspaper articles since then indicate that they are carrying out this intention.

The neglect of these problems in other parts of the state reacts on Madison. We are taxed for the products of their neglect in sanatoria, almshouses, jails, and orphanages.

The Wisconsin Conference of Social Work which conducts this work is supported entirely by voluntary contributions of agencies and individuals. An annual membership is two dollars a year, subscribing $5.00, and contributing $10.00 or more. Institutional memberships are also $10.00. The Conference is now in need of immediate help if the work is to be continued. Other cities have done their part. It is now Madison's turn.

If you desire that this work shall go on, become a member of the Conference by sending in your fee or subscription to Wisconsin Conference of Social Work.

THE MADRIGAL CLUB

THE Madrigal Club is a woman's glee club of 35 voices. It is a Madison organization. It is a democratic organization. Its members come from all walks of life. It is ambitious to serve Madison in a musical way and to become to the women of this city what the Mozart Club has become to the men.

It plans to stage a number of free concerts yearly and to bring to Madison for one concert a year some great musical artist. On Friday night, February 4 at the Presbyterian church the Madrigal Club will present to the music lovers of Madison Madame G. W. Critten of Minneapolis, said to be a contralto the like of whom Madison has not heard for many years. The club itself under the direction of Alexius Baas will sing a few numbers.

The Madrigal Club is engaged in the kind of work which makes this town a better town to live in. Madison should respond to its efforts by a good audience at the Presbyterian church on next Friday night.

REPEAL WAR LEGISLATION

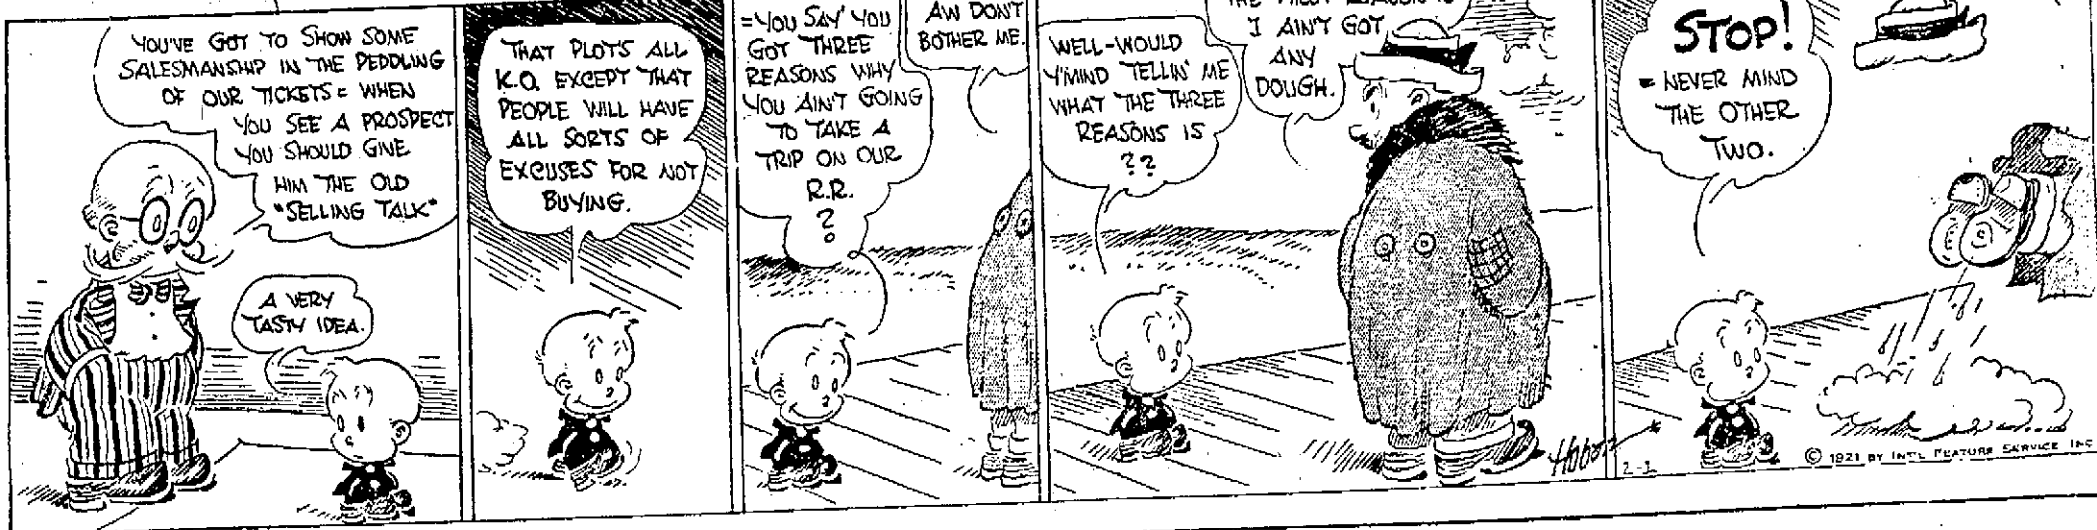

The repeal of all war legislation and war powers was promised and it should be forthcoming, but the coming is not good. There are propositions looking to the retention of the objectionable, with one of these that of the retaining of the War Finance board being revived with special powers. This body has power to loan out funds and to issue bonds of its own, independent of the treasury or authorization of congress as to special amounts. It does not matter what the object was in reviving the board, the result will be unfortunate. Such legislation has no commendation. Racine Journal-News.

THE RAILROAD MUDDLE

To the Editor of The Capital Times:

The railroads went back to private ownership some time ago.

That time was the time for the government to have taken them over.

To have said so at that time would have been blasphemy.

Government has no business to meddle with "business."

But, the roads were in such bad condition and high wages were paid, so the private owners must be allowed to raise rates—passenger and freight. And they were allowed a very substantial raise, which should mean millions and millions of increase in income.

But on the 28th of January I read in the Milwaukee Sentinel that a great meeting was called of officials from various railroads to consider the lowering of wages of the railroad employees! The income had fallen off. Did not their experts diagnose the case before?

Did the body get hardening of the arteries from the first treatment?

The saying is, a man is as old as his arteries, and the railroads are the arteries of the country. Did the raising of rates decrease the business? I certainly do not know.

But I do know, that had the government kept the railroads and raised the rates and besides that started to cut the wages of the men, we should have heard a howl about the inefficiency of public ownership such as we never had heard before.

The Wisconsin Telephone company had some of their employees going around to get people to sign petitions to the Railroad commission to raise their rate, and some of them got some signatures because the employee stated that if the company gets higher rates the employees would get a raise in wages. Some of us are suspecting that the raise the employees would get is the same kind that the railroads are trying to give their employees just now.

Last year Madison voted on whether the city should buy the street railway. It was defeated. The company was allowed to keep it.

The company has asked for another raise of fares. Supposing the city had taken over the roads and without so short a period should have had to ask permission to increase the fares, what would we have heard?

We would have heard, that public ownership was a failure. Now, what is sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander. Is not this cumulative evidence that public ownership could hardly do any worse?

REPLIES TO GAYLORD

To the Editor of The Capital Times:

Did you ever hear of the Fourth Commandment, which begins by saying, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it Holy." No person can keep the Sabbath day holy at a baseball game, picnic, theater, excursion nor at work in a factory nor on a farm. The ten commandments are not religious dogmas. They are God's laws and are the foundation of all good government.

If O. F. Gaylord will read the Inspired Word of God, he will know how nations and peoples were punished for disobeying God's laws.

NAZIMOVA in "BILLIONS"

At The Grand—"Dinty," now showing at the Grand, is Marshall Neilan's latest production. First National is releasing it, and Wesley Barry, he of the freckle face, is the principal character. To carry the honors of a five reel production is no slight task for a boy, but young Wesley proves that he has the right to have his name in electric lights with Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin and the rest of the headliners. Barry has a smattering of all the talents which are necessary for a histrionic career. He is delightfully comic, and is shown in the scenes in which, as a little Irish boy, he sells papers in Frisco, he has to own all the corners in the downtown district.

At The Strand—Ethel Clayton appears in the novel role of an Apache dancer in her Paramount picture, "A City Sparrow," which will be shown at the Strand Theatre for the last time today. This marks a distinct departure for Miss Clayton, who has been appearing recently in stories of married life. "Great A Muck Sennett" comedy, "Great Scott" will also be shown. Cecil DeMille's "Why Change Your Wife" with an all star cast including Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, and Bebe Daniels, will be the attraction at the Strand Theatre Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

At The Fuller—It is yet another Nazimova who appears in "Billions"—a Nazimova more fascinating, more intense, more varied, in fact, than she has ever seemed before. The latest photodramatic vehicle of the phenomenal Russian star was shown yesterday at the Fuller Theatre, and the crowded house attested to the astonishing popularity of this woman who has been called the world's greatest actress. In "Billions" Nazimova has the part of the

CONFESSIONS OF A CYNIC. I don't believe in telling the women what they shall wear. I don't believe there is any use. I never saw a bachelor or an old maid who wasn't there with advice on how to bring up children. I would like to be a farmer if I could do so and live in the city twelve months in the year. I don't believe congress should be made any larger. It is so large now that it never gets anywhere at all.
